EXCLUSIVE & EMBARGOED: THE PHOENIX BUSINESS JOURNAL

For Release: AUG. 18, 2017

ARIZONA FORWARD NAMES STATEWIDE FINALISTS IN 37th ANNUAL ENVIRONMENTAL EXCELLENCE AWARDS

PHOENIX (Aug. 11, 2017) – From revitalizing underused real estate to forging groundbreaking conservation programs or helping to fill food deserts, the entries in Arizona Forward's Environmental Excellence Awards presented by SRP reveal a growing statewide commitment to sustainability. Finalist entries demonstrate ways to positively impact Arizona's environment and natural resources far into the future.

Winners of the coveted first-place Crescordia and Awards of Merit will be announced at a gala on Sept. 23 at the Westin Kierland Resort & Spa. The event draws upwards of 600 community leaders and dignitaries from throughout Arizona.

A total of 14 first-place Crescordia winners and 22 Awards of Merit will be presented this year. These projects set standards for achieving a balance between the built and natural environment, impacting the state's physical, technical, social and aesthetic development. Initiated by Valley Forward in 1980, the Environmental Excellence Awards were opened to projects statewide in all categories for the last three years, after the organization broadened its geographic focus in 2013.

"Stewardship of Arizona's natural resources is a concern for communities of all sizes, as is economic growth and vitality," said Diane Brossart, president & CEO of Arizona Forward. "The projects we're recognizing reflect a shared commitment to the balance between the natural and manmade environment. The growth of this program over the years is inspiring, particularly as green building and sustainability have become mainstream."

Nominations embodied a wide spectrum of public, private, educational and nonprofit interests. Finalist projects were submitted by both Maricopa and Pima Counties, as well as the cities of Avondale, Buckeye, Mesa, Phoenix, Somerton and Tucson.

Award categories include: the Governor's Award for Arizona's Future, Buildings and Structures, the Vitalyst Health Foundation Award for Healthy Communities, Energy and Technology

Innovation, Site Development, Art in Public Places, the Northern Arizona University Award for Environmental Education and Communication, and the SRP Award for Environmental Stewardship.

One entry per category may be presented with the coveted Crescordia, a Greek term meaning, “To Grow in Harmony.” In addition, up to two Awards of Merit may be presented per category. Arizona Forward will bestow its most prestigious honor – the President’s Award (Best of Show) – to an individual, business, organization, program or event for special achievement in environmental excellence.

Lead judge for the competition was Ed Fox, retired Chief Sustainability Officer of Arizona Public Service Company. Fox capped an 18-year career at the utility, serving in a variety of capacities including, vice president state and local affairs, and vice president for environment, health, safety, communications, technology development, real estate, and transportation. Prior to that position, he was Director of the Arizona Department of Environmental Quality.

Other jurists from throughout Arizona include: Bruce Aiken, nationally recognized Grand Canyon artist; Rich Bowen, associate vice president of Northern Arizona University; Michael Bower, president/architect of Design Group Architects; Jon Ford, director of communications of Vitalyst Health Foundation; Trista Guzman, policy assistant at the Office of the Arizona Governor; Stephanie Healy, director of public affairs for Cox Communications; Rob Longaker, senior project manager for the WLB Group; Erik Peterson, president/principal of PHX Architecture; Lori Singleton, director, customer programs and operations support at SRP; and Laura Thelen, landscape architect at LVA Urban Design Studio.

In addition to the corporate community, the awards program traditionally draws a wide range of federal, state and local dignitaries. Since its inception in 1969 as Valley Forward and its statewide expansion 44 years later, Arizona Forward has mobilized the state’s business leaders and policymakers to leverage their collective power to influence how we best grow our communities, stimulate our economy and enhance our environment.

The Environmental Excellence Awards gala is open to the public but reservations are required. For information or to reserve seating, call Arizona Forward at (602) 240-2408 or register online at arizonaforward.org.
